While intimate partner violence (IPV) / domestic violence (DV) has been an aspect of most social service sector workers' work for years, the recent deaths and injuries from IPV have raised awareness about the importance of effective assessment and intervention with these situations.

As a result of this workshop you will be able to:

- Describe social and neurobiological factors that affect people who experience IPV/DV
- Describe how the person who uses abuse/violence remains a presence in work with people who experience IPV/DV
- Identify risk factors
- Describe strategies to deal with these factors
- Describe safety planning strategies
- Describe resources for people who experience IPV/DV
- Describe effective coordination
